Dear Members:

This year is coming to a close, and all I can say is ... thank you.

With the ups and downs this year, the unpredictability, and the way we've had to re-think ... everything, you've been there, day in and day out, inspiring us to cultivate educational, wealth building and growth opportunities for groups historically underrepresented in business and entrepreneurship.

In our 50th – and arguably – most trying year, the National Black MBA Association® continued its unwavering commitment to meet the needs of our 20,000 members across 40 chapters. This year we demonstrated why we are the premier business organization serving Black professionals by:

- Hosting our first-ever Virtual Conference & Career Fair
- Conducting robust year-round webinar programming
- Launching the Racial Equity Initiative
- Awarding $2M in scholarships
- Introducing the COVID-19 Relief Fund

I consider it an incredible blessing to be the President and CEO of this organization, and offer you my sincerest gratitude for your continued support of the Association. Especially today, during these difficult times, I want to remind you of the greatness that lives in you and encourage you to work towards your life goals – no matter the challenges.

From all of us at the NBMBAA®, best wishes for a new year filled with health, happiness and great personal and professional success!

Sincerely,

Joseph "Joe" Handy
