

Kenneth Holley is a Project Management Office (PMO) Consultant for TEKsystems in Healthcare IT managing client enterprise level system and application implementations for Montefiore Healthcare System. Ken's responsibilities include working on project framework deliverables with vendors, managers, and application product owners to meet project goals.

Ken has leveraged his project management and IT experience in every role he has held. Prior to the healthcare sector, he worked in banking, real estate, education, and the nonprofit industry. His strengths include his ability to work collaboratively with internal and external clients, create management reports, strategize to plan and meet financial goals, and mentoring.

Ken has been a member of the NMBBAA Metro New York Chapter since 2017. In 2018, he traveled to Ghana on a Business Mission with a delegation of nearly 100 NMBBAA members. As a way of giving back, he created a GoFundMe page to raise awareness and funds for a nonprofit organization that provides environmentally friendly bicycles to students and entrepreneurs in rural communities of Ghana. Ken cycled nearly 300 miles in 2018 through his participation in 3 events: The Twin Lights Ride (Jersey Shore), Major Taylor Iron Riders Legends Ride (Montauk), and the New York Cycle Club (Escape New York). Since 2016, he has cycled nearly 500 miles raising awareness and funds for nonprofits internationally and domestically that support education and self-sufficiency.

Ken is a member of Rochester Institute of Technology, Alumni Board of Directors, where he serves on the Student/Alumni Engagement Committee, and Diversity, Equity, Inclusion Committee. He holds a MS in Management and Systems from New York University's School of Professional Studies with a specialization in Strategy and Leadership. He also holds a BS in Information Technology from Rochester Institute of Technology.
